

WE CAN HELP

Many children are born with or may develop disabilities which challenge their normal growth and development, impacting their success in school. Fortunately, many of these conditions can be helped if parents recognize the problem early and seek help.

If you suspect your child may have special needs, call one of the numbers below. Don't hesitate to call their attention to, and/or seek advice about particular behaviors or possible difficulties your child may be experiencing. Remember, the earlier you recognize your child's special needs and seek help, the greater the possibility that your child can be helped. First Steps and your local school district need to know about all children with challenges, ages birth through 21 in order to plan for their individual needs.

- Does not react to his/her own name when called by age nine months.
- Is unable to identify hair, eyes, ears, nose and mouth by pointing to them by age two.
- Does not understand simple stories told or read by age three.
- Does not give reasonable answers to such questions as “What do you do when you are sleepy?” or “What do you do when you are hungry?” by age four.

- Does not seem to understand the meaning of the words “today,” “tomorrow,” or “yesterday,” by age five.
- Cannot find the words to describe their thoughts clearly at any age.

SEEING

- Is unable to reach for and hold a toy by age six months.
- Is often unable to locate and pick up small objects which have been dropped.
- Frequently rubs eyes or complains that eyes hurt.
- Has reddened, watering eyes or encrusted eyelids.
- Holds head in a strained or awkward position (tilts head to either side—thrusts head forward or backward) when trying to look at a particular person or object.
- Sometimes or always crosses one or both eyes.
- Often complains of blurred vision and headaches.

TALKING

- Cannot say “Mama” or “Dada” by age nine months.
- Cannot say the names of a few toys and people by age two.
- Cannot repeat common rhymes or TV jingles by age three.
- Is not talking in short sentences by age four.
- Is not understood by people outside the family by age five.
- Cannot pronounce words clearly; speech is slurred and awkward at any age.
